Dear Mr Orren,

I saw a reference to your client, JOHN GREGORY LAMBROS, in the UK parapolitical publication, Lobster (no 28).

I'm a freelance journalist, and regular contributor to French (Intelligence Newsletter, Paris), Irish (Sunday Business Post; The Phoenix, Dublin) and Dutch (Bres, Amsterdam) publications.

I'd like to write an article on your client, his background, claims of implantation and his current campaign to get a CAT scan.

If there's enough material the piece can run to 5,000 words plus. The Dutch version will probably be taken by Bres - a high-profile publication (for which I recently completed an article which included an outline of the CIA's MK-ULTRA program, and the work of spook-scientist Dr Sidney Gottlieb and UCLA's Dr Jolyon West) which is often used as a basis for discussion on developments of this nature, thus readers are familiar with the territory.

I'll try and place a shorter (3,000 +) version with the Dublin newspaper, the Sunday Business Post. Mr Lambros's case has received no media coverage here, or in Ireland (as far as I know).

So whatever you've got, Mr Orren, that I can use, I'd appreciate. Any additional material that I get, which might help Mr Lambros's case, I'll forward to you. I'll ring around - the US ambassador, a prominent Dutch psychiatrist whom I know well, that type of thing. I'll send you the 'raw' copy which might be useful as part of the CAT campaign.

Finally, I don't know what penal restrictions are placed on Mr Lambros, but if he would like to contact me I'd be pleased to correspond directly also.

Thank you.

Regards
Michael Quilligan
